

WILL ADVERTISE THE ATTRACTIONS OF OUR STATE

Movement Is Being Directed by the Old Home Week Association.

Concord, May 28.—The recent legislature made a special appropriation of $1200 to be used at once toward advertising the natural attractions and agricultural opportunities of the state. The state was asked to do this as its portion of a cooperative movement on the part of properly holders of the state, real estate men, hotel and summer boarding house managers, garage owners, etc., to meet a similar present activity in other northern New England states for their own advantage. The special appropriations will be supplemented with $300 from an unexpended balance left after paying the cost of the current issue of the New Hampshire Farms for Summer Homes publication under the state board of agriculture.

At the request of Governor Peck the movement is being directed by the Old Home Week Association, an organization already in existence for the purpose of promoting the interests of the state along similar lines. This association is officered as follows: President, Ex-Governor Francis W. Rollins, secretary, ex-Governor Nathaniel J. Blodgett, treasurer, Harry H. Dudley of Concord; executive committee, Richard P. Bates, master of State Grange; George W. Fowler, managing editor of Manchester Union

DEMOCRATS WILL HEED PROTESTS

Leaders Will Drop Tariff Clause Aiding U. S. Shipping and May Modify Other Provisions

Washington, May 28.—Congress will in all probability yield to the protests of foreign nations against the provision in the Underwood tariff bill granting a 5 per cent tariff discount on imports in American owned or controlled vessels.

That the provision can be eliminated from the bill without harm and that congress has no desire to insist upon legislation that will be embarrassing to foreign nations or interfere with greatly obligations was admitted today by administration leaders who are in charge of the bill. President Wilson is said to have let it be known that he would not object to having the clause eliminated.

This action it was reported today would be recommended by the senate finance sub committee headed by John Sharp Williams, who is considering the administrative features of the bill. The sub committee also will seek to modify another clause which compels foreign merchants to submit their books to an American agent in cases of disputed valuations provides as a penalty for refusal that the goods be excluded from entry.

Effort Will Be Made

Germany, France, and England have made strong protests against this clause and assurances were given today that an effort will be made to eliminate the clause. Two important conferences were held today on the foreign protests. One was between Senator Simmons, chairman of the finance committee, and Secretary Bryan and John Bassett Moore, counselor of the state department. The other conference was between Senator Williams and Shively of the finance committee and representative Peters of Massachusetts, who had charge of the administrative section of the tariff bill for the house ways and means committee.

It was reported that the state department held it to be unquestionable that the 5 per cent preference clause violated foreign treaties. During the conference protests against the clause from eight nations were read.

It was generally expected tonight that the house would yield to a senate amendment striking out the clause.

As the senate sub committee got down to work today and began consideration of proposed changes in the bill they found a long job ahead of them. Spurred on to finish the schedules within a week if possible, they aimed to hold day and night executive sessions, but some of them feared that even in this way they might not be able to be ready for the full committee before ten days.

Raw Wool and Sugar

Several Democratic leaders were emphatic in declaring that, whatever was done by the committee, there would be no changes in raw wool or sugar. As far as the committee is concerned this seems to be determined. The fight to change them will be made in the caucus, but the present prospect is that the administration forces will not yield here. A report that the rates on woolen manufactures would be increased was denied by Senator Simmons.

Representative Hull of Tennessee, author of the income tax section of the bill, was in conference with Senators Williams and Shively for several hours going over the protests which have been filed.

MAN MAY BE CHARGED WITH WHITE SLAVERY

Purinton Has a Record and Is Wanted in Boston on Larceny Charge.

The police made an important arrest today in the capture of Leslie Purinton, alias Jack Wilson, aged 25, and Florence Paulding, aged 18, both of Boston. The story of the girl makes the arrest of this man more important not alone to the police here but the officers of station 10 of Boston.

The girl was arrested at a boarding house on Hanover street last night along with a sailor giving the name of William J. Buelow. They were charged with a statutory offense. She informed the police on her arrest that Purinton got her to come to this city to pull off a badger game. They hired a room as man and wife and shortly after Purinton introduced her to the woman of the lodging house as a sister to the sailor. Later on Purinton and the proprietor of the lodging house found the sailor and the Paulding woman together in the room. The girl says a demand was made for money or jewelry. The sailor says he heard no demand.

The girl when arrested did considerable talking and her story is likely to put Purinton behind the bars for a good long period. She said he was a first class crook and was wanted for the robbery of several residences in Boston. She had considerable jewelry on her person which she handed over to the police, stating that it had been stolen by Purinton and given to her. She also said he had done time at the Concord reformatory for larceny at Haverhill Mass, and that she had herself been sent to the school for girls at Lancaster.

Relative to the jewelry stolen in Boston and other places she informed Chief Hurley that a good part of it could be recovered in this state.

Officers Shannon and Carleton found Purinton with a lot of sailors near the navy yard ferry landing and while on the way to the police station he attempted to escape. When hooked he said he was a native of this state and formerly lived in Exeter. He had an automatic gun and some blank bank checks and bank book with the name of one of the crew of the prison ship Southern on the back.

Chief Hurley communicated with the police of station 10, Boston, and they believe he is a much wanted man for several breaks in and around Boston. They also have a record of the girl.

An officer from Boston will be sent here this afternoon to look them over. Chief Hurley may turn the case of Purinton over to the federal authorities who would likely put him away for some time on the charge of promoting the white slave traffic.

RETIRE ON SATURDAY.

Roadmaster Pemberton Has Seen Nearly Fifty Years on B. & M.

Charles H. Pemberton of Dover, one of the oldest employees of the Boston & Maine, retires on Saturday after nearly fifty years' service, forty of which he served as a roadmaster. He will be succeeded by W. L. Shumka, a track supervisor, who will have charge of the Lakeport and Conway branches with headquarters at Rochester.

In connection with these changes announced by the engineering department, W. C. Lewis of this city, track supervisor of the Eastern route, will now have fifty more miles of track territory between Dover and Portland on the Western route.

It is expected that Mr. Pemberton, after so many years of faithful work, will be placed on the pension list.

BOSTON POLITICIANS

Enjoy a Banquet in This City on Wednesday.

A number of Boston politicians enjoyed an auto trip to this city on Wednesday. Among the party were State Senator Timbly, Councilmen Kenney and Ballantyne, and Clerk of Committees John P. Dever. After visiting several places of historic interest the party sat down to the festive board at Ham's cafe on High street. There were twelve all together including two or three prominent business men of the Hub.

AN INCREASE IN VALUATION

State Tax Commission Insist that Assessors Hold City to Last Year's Valuation

The board of tax assessors of Portsmouth, Messrs. Hodgdon, Yarwood and Blaisdell are again having their troubles. These three gentlemen have gone over the matter of tax assessment in their usual thorough manner and it is understood have their work nearly completed. Recently Mr. Brown of the state tax commission visited this city for a conference with the local board and during the visit he intimated that nothing short of last year's valuation would be acceptable to the state commission. Last year it will be remembered that after the local assessors had got their books made up, the state board ordered an increase of one million in valuation.

This by many was considered a very unjust proceeding as it is a well known fact that the assessment in this city, has been more in keeping with the proper requirements of the law than by most cities and towns in the state.

It is stated that should the local assessors be obliged to conform with the demands of the state commission to equal the valuation of last year, they will have to assess the property at least three quarters of a million dollars more.

New York, May 29.—Word by cable reached here this noon that the American liner Haverford, bound from Liverpool for Philadelphia, went ashore on Dunns Rock off the coast of Ireland with 1000 passengers on board. It is impossible to learn the exact condition of the ship at this hour.

WILL REORGANIZE.

Kittery People Want New Fire Brigade in that Town.

The citizens of Kittery desire a new fire department and a start toward that end was made on Wednesday evening. At the meeting a committee consisting of Bert Farrington, Alex. Bennett, George Williams, Stephen Grant and William Waldron was named to bring in a list of officers to be voted on at the next meeting.

The committee made the following selections: Chief Engineer, Frank Bennett; assistant chief, Bert Farrington; treasurer, John Grant; clerk, Fred Hatch.

It is likely that a lively contest will be in order when the next meeting is held from the fact that there is a feeling that younger men should head the organization, as well as make up the list of fire fighters in that town.

K. of C. Hold Merry Party at the Home.

The rooms of the Knights of Columbus were the scene of a large gathering on Wednesday evening, when an invitation party enjoyed whist and dancing. The affair was the second in the series to be given by the organization in the rooms which have just been remodeled at the Home on Islington street. Some costly gifts were awarded and choice refreshments served.

WILL STRIKE TODAY IN TWO PLANTS

Gov. Foss Refused Demands of Men in His Hyde Park Shops.

Boston, May 28.—Workers in two Hyde Park manufacturing plants controlled by Gov. Eugene N. Foss, the B. F. Sturtevant company, and the Becker Milling Machine company, voted tonight to strike tomorrow morning.

The vote, which was taken at a largely attended mass meeting, followed the governor's refusal of demands for a 20 per cent. increase in wages and betterment of certain working conditions. Representatives of the men who spoke at the meeting said that a strike might have been averted had Governor Foss consented to submit the alleged grievances to arbitration. The state board of conciliation and arbitration reported today that its proposal for mediation had been turned down by the governor.

Of the 1200 men employed in the two Hyde Park factories, it was estimated that more than 1000 were present tonight. Labor leaders claimed that all are union members, while Governor Foss insists that the men are not organized. The vote to strike was practically unanimous. Only one man stood up as opposed to walking out and he agreed to follow the majority.

It was voted that the workers should report at their benches and machines as usual at 7 o'clock, but should walk out together an hour later. Many of the men when they dropped work tonight removed their working clothes with them, not expecting to return. They had done this for three days past.

Indications tonight were that the strike would be an orderly one. No preparations had been made at a late hour for other than the usual police protection, and at the factory everything was in readiness to take up the day's labor.

Governor Foss, in refusing the men's demands, announced that unless he imported help it would be necessary to shut down the plants. At that time he said that the situation growing out of the impending changes in the tariff laws was one reason why he could not grant the increases demanded.

Labor leaders said late tonight, that it was probable that the Mead-Morrison Manufacturing company in Cumberland, of which Governor Foss is president, would be involved in the strike tomorrow. The blacksmiths at that place have grievances of their own, it was said, and the other employees may formulate demands.

Everything from Cellar to Roof
Cor. Green and Vaughan Streets, PortsmouthPLUCKING BOARD NECESSARY
BUT GREATLY FEARED

This is the season when naval officers are worrying about promotion. For the Plucking Board acts in June. Like the "June drop" to the peach crop is the Plucking Board to naval officers looking for promotion, says E. N. Vallanburgh in the Boston Transcript. The Board was invented to stop congestion in the higher ranks of the navy, to hasten promotion, to get men a little earlier into command rank and finally to the rank of admiral, and to increase the efficiency of the service by weeding out men who for one reason or another are not up to the mark of efficiency. When you have nearly 1500 line officers below the rank of commander, and more than 200 commanders and Captains and only twenty-five admirals, the admiral of the fleet included, it is pretty plain that there will come a time when promotion must cease or men who reach the rank of admiral must be rushed through it in a few months.

Before the Plucking Board got to work, the higher ranks of the navy were so congested that men reaching the rank of rear admiral tarried, some times, only a few days in that rank, before they reached the age of sixty-two and retired, and very few men remained active admirals more than a few months. After the Plucking Board had been at work for a few years, the time that a man might expect to tarry in the rank of rear admiral was lengthened from days to months and at length from months to as much as two or three or four years. Admirals aside, the Plucking Board concerned itself with everybody all up and down the roster of the navy, and any man of whatever rank, high or low, might find himself recommended, not for promotion, but for retirement.

A good many years ago, a clever and humorous lieutenant said, "If I don't get into mischief and keep my feet dry, I'll be an admiral some day." But under the operations of the Plucking Board mere virtue and good health do not assure a man of promotion to the rank of admiral. The Plucking Board may "get him" almost anywhere down the line and recommend him for retirement with or without the next higher rank.

For thirteen years the Board has been at work. It has gone over and gone over again the whole personnel of the navy, considered every man's physical, moral and mental health, his record, his temperament and all else that has a bearing upon his probable continued usefulness as an officer of the navy. In that time from fourteen to twenty men have been plucked every year. The service has benefited by the process of selection and elimination thus carried on, and probably many of those plucked and most of their acquaintances have acquiesced in the justice of the Board's findings. It was easy enough at first to pick the men for plucking, because there were wide differences in the physical, mental, moral and temperamental state of men in the same rank. There were plenty of men who knew pretty well that they could never hope to reach the rank of commanders, and there were commanders and captains who knew that their physical condition or something else would inevitably prevent them from arriving at the grade of rear admiral. After thirteen years, however, of shuffling and reshuffling the personnel of the navy, the Plucking Board finds itself face to face with the situation, that was inevitable from the beginning.

Written in Card Catalogues.

The weeding-out process has left in the higher grades of the service some thing over two hundred men not far apart in age and presumably not far apart in the sum of their powers, however different as to individual qualities. In other words, the sifting and resifting process has given the navy a heap of very finely bottled flour. It is no longer an easy matter to pick the captain or commander that shall be recommended for promotion to rear admiral, and the captain or commander, who shall be plucked for retirement. The effect upon the officers themselves also is a bit trying. Many a man wonders whether this or that incident of his career, this or that peculiarity of temperament will bring about his retirement, rather than his promotion. Every man knows that his professional and physical history have been absolutely familiar to the board for thirteen years past, and that his earlier record is subject to examination. The whole story is written in the card catalogues of the Navy Department or at least all of it that is tangible stands there as matter of record, while the board knows just how each man's name was canvassed when he came up for promotion the last time and the time before that.

Naval officers, like the rest of us, are apt to discount the future, and those of sanguine temperament are apt to bet upon promotion to the rank of admiral and retirement at sixty-two with the proper retired pay of that rank. If a man has been living pretty close up to his income, the possibility of his failure to "get his step" in due season is a painful thing to contemplate. The extra pay of an admiral for two or three years may put a captain financially on his feet before retirement, and assure him a comfortable old age instead of continued embarrassment, and a very little thing may determine that one man shall be taken and another left.

Navies That Do Things Better.

They do some of these things better in other navies of the world. Of course congestion in the higher ranks would be inevitable in any navy without some provision to lessen the volume of the stream pouring onward to the tiny orifice at the end. In almost no other important navy of the world is the officer expected to live upon his pay. True, in no other important navy is the officer so well paid, and with the fear of the Plucking Board before their eyes, the officers of the American navy should have learned to act upon the theory that regular

TO HOLD THE STATE CHAMPIONSHIP AT RYE

The annual meeting of the New Hampshire Golf Association was held at Concord on Wednesday with delegates present from the clubs at Concord, Manchester, Exeter, Rochester, Dover, Rye Beach and Portsmouth.

The report of the treasurer showed the association to be in good financial standing.

The following officers were elected: President, A. P. Cooper, Exeter; vice president, R. D. McDonough, Portsmouth; secretary and treasurer, H. J. Steward of Concord; Executive committee officers and G. A. Place, Concord; F. L. Keay, Manchester; John Marshall, Manchester, W. A. Carter, Rye Beach.

Invitations were received to hold the annual tournament from Abenaki Golf Club at Rye Beach, Intervale Country Club, Manchester and the Portsmouth Country Club, and it was voted to hold the tournament, which is the annual state championship, at the Abenaki, that being an eighteen hole course.

The meet will be held Friday and Saturday, Sept. 5 and 6th with the same program as last year, that is, qualifying round on Friday forenoon, match play for three night afternoon, and Saturday and handicap tournament Saturday.

The question of a state handicap was considered and it was voted to adopt the national standard, and the handicap committee of the various clubs will be urged to handicap from the state representatives in the National handicap list. There are Jesse Guilford at four and C. W. Bass at six. From the compiled lists a state handicap will be made up which will conform with Massachusetts and all other state lists.

promotion to the highest rank and retirement with the retired pay of an admiral is not to be counted upon. Thirteen years, however, is not only one-third of a forty-year service period, but the first twenty-five years of a man's active life are likely to determine his habits of expenditure for the remainder of his life. At any rate the situation of a good many men who have watched the operation of the plucking system since its original institution is just what might have been expected of men bred from late boyhood to the notion that the service meant employment on the active list with full pay until the age of sixty-two, and the reasonable hope of attaining the grade of admiral.

In Fear of Next Month.

In the English navy men have always known that many of them, no matter how fit, cannot expect to reach the higher grades of the service. But officers of the English navy are ordinarily not expected to live upon their pay, and provision is made for allowances where officers incur the obligation of expensive hospitality in the course of duty. In the French, as in the German navy, a subaltern can not marry without the guarantee from the bride's parents of a dot sufficient in the eyes of the higher authorities. Of course American naval officers will learn in time to accommodate themselves to the inevitable. The Plucking Board, or something equivalent, must be a permanency of the service. Even a war could not obviate the necessity of such an institution for losses in war are rarely so great as to create many vacancies in the higher ranks of the navy. Such losses in our navy have been insignificant throughout its whole history. The task of the Plucking Board, however, is an especially delicate one in the present juncture, and meanwhile a delicious season of the year is poised for not a few officers by the painful possibilities of the "June drop."

NO INQUIRY INTO DOLPHIN'S DANGER.

Secretary Daniels has announced that no formal inquiry will be made into the incident that occurred in Judith Sound last month when gunners on the monitor Tallahassee fired at the Secretary's yacht, Dolphin, mistaking it for a target ship. After talking with members of the Senate and House Naval committee who were aboard the Dolphin at the time, the Secretary decided merely to write a letter to the commander of the Tallahassee admonishing him to caution the men responsible for the mistake. The incident occurred April 25. A shell from one of Tallahassee's 12-inch guns was said to have passed over the stern of the Dolphin which had on board members of the congressional committees on land to watch the target practice.

Looking Both Ways.

What a strenuous world it is coming to be is shown by the campaign in Washington to have the public schools teach the art of crossing a street without getting run over. There is a new association with a "reach and teach" slogan, which has set itself to spread the "gospel of caution." Its creed is, "Train the children in making the streets safe, and a generation from now street safety will be taken as a matter of course." But "street safety" seems to mean skill in evading street dangers. Women interested in the movement are to visit all the schools in the District of Columbia, making ten-minute talks and leaving cards of admonition to be distributed. They will also "reach and teach" the parents. In addition the teachers are giving instruction, showing the pupils how to choose the right moment and to look both ways. On every desk is a blotter with a list of "Don'ts," and some of the children are writing compositions on the art of dodging automobiles and trolley cars—an elaborate science of strategy and tactics may be expected to result. The Boy Scouts are making a special study of street safety, and those who successfully pass an examination in the subject will be set to instructing the less expert. Ways have been found to reach and teach at least 10,000 of the 55,000 children in the schools of the District, and the rest will be looked out for as rapidly as possible.—Springfield Republican.

He Made Good.

Not so very long ago, in his capacity as an official of the Cash Register company, John H. Patterson was sentenced to fine and imprisonment for the violation of the Sherman anti-trust law. Then came the great flood at Dayton. And Mr. Patterson was the man of the hour. By his energy, by his liberality, by his complete devotion to the public good, he was able to do very large things for his city during those trying days. Now he is almost unanimously elected head of the new commission government of Dayton. The people of his city believe in him, and wish to have the use of his really large powers. It is not often that a man has a chance to make good so quickly after he has been condemned. It is not always that he has the stuff in him by which he can rise to such an occasion. Mr. Patterson is viewed very differently by the public from what he was a few months ago. It is not that the practices condemned were not bad. They were and are. But this man shows that he is possessed of larger ideals than the false ones that got him behind the bars. Doubtless, if he asks, a pardon will be forthcoming. And the public will applaud the granting of such relief under the circumstances. Incidentally, probably Mr. Patterson will not be guilty again of the previous offense.—Lynn News.

Should Be Safeguarded.

For years this newspaper has advocated steel frame cars for the railway mail, and has ever been at loss to understand why the railway mail clerks, whose cars are generally in the most dangerous position on a train when a wreck occurs, have not been safeguarded. The fact is the railroad lobby at Washington has been too strong to prevent the abandoning of the present mail cars. Now, however, the outlook is brighter. Plans are being made to have uniform mail cars of the very best steel equipment and unless a railroad furnishes them it cannot carry Uncle Sam's mail. All this would have been done years ago had public sentiment been the real dominating force in this country instead of the wishes of avaricious railroads and corporations. The era of strong public sentiment for just such changes and reforms seems to be upon us to stay for a while.

Sensible Action at Last.

The rearrest and return to Holloway jail of Mrs. Pankhurst, who tried to starve herself and was released on "license" before her term had expired, is the first clear indication we have seen that the British home office is at last awake to the necessity of dealing with the militant suffragettes with more than a show of severity. If this mob leader is now treated in prison as ordinary offenders are treated, if the publication of daily bulletins from her is prohibited, if she is not permitted to send incendiary letters to her accomplices, we may be assured that the end of militancy is in sight.—New York Times.

The Honors of the Day Belong to None Except the Gallant Boys of Sixty-one.

They march—the boys of Sixty-one—with banners proudly flying,
But not of strife the whistling fife is singing as they tramp
To where their gallant comrades of another day are lying,
Serene in deep and dreamless sleep in Glory's peaceful camp.

They halt—the boys of Sixty-one—the ranks are quickly broken,
The thin array soon melts away; the stirring march is done,
And then their children's children come, each offering a token
To one who gave his youth to save the flag in Sixty-one.

WHAT DUST IS MADE OF

Dust, so men of science assure us, would not be possible, were not matter almost infinitely divisible. It has, for instance, been estimated that an average puff of smoke from a cigarette contains some four thousand millions of particles of dust.

But a single grain of indigo is so small, will impart color to a ton of water. It follows, therefore, that every drop of this water takes over an immense number of ultramicroscopic particles of indigo. A few grains of fluorescein and a substance derived from coal tar, will produce a distinct fluorescence. To produce this result the fluorescein undergoes of course, division into countless millions of particles.

Almost every substance enters into the composition of dust. Street dust shows morsels of iron and steel from the tires of wagons, horseshoes, and the nails of men's shoes, bits of leather from harness, fragments of wood, cotton, wool, hair, paper, clay, etc.—Lynn Weekly.

RAILROAD NOTES

The steady increase in pension payments to old employees by both the New Haven road and the New England Steamship Co., is shown in figures just made public by J. M. Tomlinson of the auditing department.

Since July 1, 1908, there has been an increase in pensions paid of $43,408. The amount paid out in the first year was $102,322, and for the year which will end on June 30 it is estimated at $446,000.

The increase this year over last will exceed that of any previous year, indicating how the number of beneficiaries is growing.

DEFILED CONSULATE DOOR.

Act of Unknowns at Nogales, N. M., Cause Apprehended.

Nogales, N. M., May 28.—Much apprehension was aroused here today by the discovery that unidentified persons had defiled the front door of the United States consulate at Nogales, Sonora. Consul Frederick Stimpich sent a note of protest to the town prefect and a policeman immediately was sent to remove the defacement.

Profuse apologies were made by local Sonora officials, who asserted that the insult was made by enemies of the insurgent government who sought to cause complications between the revolutionary party and the United States. Special police were sent to guard the consulate night and day.

WHAT GRANDMOTHER WORE

They are saying mean things of our grandmothers. Of the trim little hats that we wear. The close fitting toques and the turbans. That keep all the dust from the hair. The coal scuttle. But do they remember the bonnets. The coal scuttle bonnets of yore. All loaded with feathers and flowers. The bonnets our grandmothers wore?

The funny cartoonists are saying. The short, narrow skirt of today. Escaping the germs on the pavement. In wait to be carried away. Just think of the flounces and scallops. The gathers behind and before. The yards that went sweeping the gutters. In the dresses our grandmothers wore. Their delicate shoulders uncovered. And boards in the front of their stays. Tom. Deceased in our grandmothers' days. A waist that was squeezed like a lemon. Panties coming down to the floor. And hoops were a few of the fashions. Our foolish young grandmothers wore.

Do you doubt that the world is progressing. And scoff at our later day clothes? Then go up to the trunks in the garret. Where the garments discarded repose. Put on all the finery faded. The pelicans, too, by the score. And wait—if you can—in the bundles. Of dry goods our grandmothers wore. —Minna Irving, in the New York Times.

Fine Opportunities In Herald Ads.

These May days, particularly in such lines as relate to wearing apparel, things for the home and for the table. At this season merchants emphasize the desirability of making special purchases at their stores, and their particular inducements present many bargains of exceptionally attractive character. Lighter underwear, thinner underwear, hats, shoes, waist, shirt and neckwear have the call and wonderful offers in these lines blossom luxuriantly on almost every page. Turn over the pages of today's paper after you have read this little reminder and you will find many extremely attractive advertisements. By that we mean really excellent merchandise at prices that have been lowered to create a greater demand, to attract a wider circle of possible purchasers.

Mistrial Feared in the Case of Lawyer Gibson.

Newburgh, N. Y., May 28.—At a late hour tonight the jury which has in its hands the fate of Burton W. Gibson, the New York lawyer, charged with the murder of Mrs. Rosa Szabo, his client, had reached no agreement after having deliberated since 4:13 o'clock this afternoon. A mistrial is feared, as happened on the first trial of Gibson last fall. Crowds in the courtroom and other parts of the courthouse, awaited the result, local interest in the case being intense.

The only time the jury was heard again.

Jury room came a call for the letters in which Mrs. Szabo wrote relatives a few before she met her death in the waters of Greenwood lake, that she would sail for her home in Europe on July 27. The fatality occurred on July 16.

FLOWERS ARE SCARCE.

Artificial Decorations Will Be Used by Many on Memorial Day.

A scarcity of natural flowers because of the backward and cold weather will result in more pieces of artificial decorations being placed on the graves of the dead, tomorrow, than at any other time since Memorial Day commenced to be generally celebrated. While there are natural flowers of various kinds of flowers to be had the prices are beyond the reach of the ordinary pocketbook, and in their place will be substituted artificial works which can hardly be told from the real flower except by the absence of perfume.

The custom of placing floral pieces on graves of dead relatives or friends has grown each year since the observance of Memorial Day was inaugurated, although it is not the only day in the year by any means when the living remember the dead. But the habit has grown to such an extent that many place their first spring decorations on the graves at the same time the survivors of the Civil and Spanish American wars are doing honor to their dead comrades. Perhaps for that reason there is an unusually large demand for flowers during the last two weeks of May, a demand which heretofore has been met by the florists without any particular trouble.

This year, however, the owners of hot houses have been unable to get the ordinary degree of growth out of the ordinary blooming plants, because winter weather did not arrive until after spring had got here according to the calendar. Some weeks ago the florist shop owners saw that they would be unable to supply the demand for natural flowers and accordingly placed large orders for those of the artificial kind.

A Cottolene Strawberry Short Cake

Pastry made with Cottolene is smoother in texture, finer-grained and better in flavor than if made from butter or lard.

And Cottolene costs no more than lard, and will go one-third farther than either butter or lard.

There is as much difference between Cottolene and its imitations as between extra good and very poor butter. Be careful, avoid substitutes.

TRY THIS RECIPE:

1 quart flour 1 pint milk 6 tablespoons Cottolene
1 heaping teaspoon salt 1 teaspoon sugar
3 teaspoons baking powder

Mix dry ingredients together and sift into chopping bowl. Add Cottolene chilled, chop lightly until well mixed; be careful to keep everything cold. Now add the milk, stirring lightly. Divide dough into 6 parts, rolling each piece the size and shape of a plate. Put 2 cakes into each plate and bake about 15 minutes in quick oven. Place on hot plate, tear cakes apart and spread sweetened mashed strawberries between and over the cakes. Sprinkle with powdered sugar and serve at once.

BALKAN STATES ALLIES READY TO FLY AT EACH OTHER'S THROAT

Powers Give Them An Ultimatum to Keep Up to Standard.

London, May 28.—The military circles of the Balkan states expect an almost immediate outbreak of hostilities between Bulgaria and Serbia.

The correspondent at Athens says that Bulgaria is striving to come to an agreement with Greece in order to have her entire forces free to operate against Serbia. The Bulgarians propose to give up their claims on Salonica on condition that Greece abandons certain territory in the Paionian district. Should this arrangement succeed, Serbia and Greece will be separated by Bulgarian territory. Premier Vanezola is starting from Athens to join King Constantine at Salonica. General Savoff also will go to Salonica and it is hoped that the chiefs of the two armies will come to an understanding which will prevent a recurrence of irritating incidents. The most severe tension exists between the Greek and Bulgarian armies facing each other some distance to the north of Salonica. Several clashes occurred yesterday and today, and the Greeks accuse the Bulgarians of assuming the aggressive. In spite of the declaration made at the Bulgarian capital that the Bulgarians troops have been ordered to observe a moderate attitude and to avoid conflicts with the Greeks, the Bulgarian commanders apparently are preparing to attack Eleutheria, with a view to gaining complete occupation of the dominant position of Mount Pangaea. They already have picked guns on the crest of the hills to the south east of Prave, commanding Eleutheria. The Bulgarian troops also have occupied the heights commanding the village of Eleutheria, to the south of Lake Doiran and the town of the same name, which is occupied by the Greeks. It is the belief of the Greek generals that the Bulgarians are systematically creating incidents and endeavoring to drive the Greeks toward the sea and seize the positions vacated by them. Bulgaria has addressed a note to the European Powers offering to submit to their decision the question of the future allocation of Salonica, according to the Reichspost. Ultimatum by the Powers. The growing displeasure in diplomatic circles of the great Powers at the attitude of Greece and Serbia found expression in what practically amounted to an ultimatum, which Sir Edward Grey, the British secretary for foreign affairs, delivered to the delegates of the belligerents. The communication which was couched in strong phrases, without ambiguity made it perfectly clear that enough time had been spent in futile discussions of the peace settlement, and that the moment had arrived for the signing of the draft treaty. Despite assertions to the contrary the ambassadors were from the first adverse to any modification of the draft, not because of the character of the proposed changes so much as because of the delay which would attend fresh discussions. Furthermore, it was pointed out that the proposed modifications were useless in those cases which had been left in the hands of the Powers. Consequently the delegates were informed that a decision had been reached that peace should be signed forthwith without modification. It was also intimated that those states which were prepared to sign should do so, and that it would serve no purpose for those not prepared to sign to remain longer, thereby intimating that the negotiations may continue. The Serbians and Greeks have notified their home governments of this decision and now are awaiting instructions. The Turks and Bulgarians are ready to sign, and it is not expected that the Montenegrins will raise any objections. Some of the Balkan delegates express the opinion that the communication of the Powers favors more of intervention than mediation. But the real reason behind the ultimatum lies in the determination of the diplomats to get the draft signed so as to be in a position to take up the big questions remaining for settlement after the preliminaries of peace are adopted. A Constantinople despatch says that the Council of Ministers has decided to reject all modifications of the peace draft suggested by the allies.

"Spring Fever"

—a sort of "weak in the knees" feeling sometimes comes with the first warm days—

A SIGN OF PLAYED-OUT NERVES

It is a "let down" of nerve force, following months of high tension in resisting cold weather.

Nerves need nutrition—specialized nutrition which builds and maintains nerve cells to highest efficiency.

The vital and necessary constituents of all brain and nerve cells, are water, albumin and organic Phosphate of Potash.

Water and albumin in generous quantities are supplied in every day food. Phosphate of Potash, on the other hand, is often lacking.

The lack of this necessary element is usually just the difference between nerve strength and nerve weakness.

Grape-Nuts

FOOD

—made of choice wheat and malted barley, contains the necessary Phosphate of Potash in true organic form. Grape-Nuts is easily digested by even the weakest stomach and its crisp, sweet, appetizing granules, served with cream, make an ideal breakfast.

Dr. Arnold Lorand

Physician to the Baths, Carlsbad, Austria.

In his recently published book, "Health Through Rational Diet," from the press of the F. A. Davis Co., Philadelphia, says:

As a breakfast food another variety of the healthful cereals which are much used in America would be advantageous. Grape-Nuts, in which the floury substance has been dextrinized by long baking and thus rendered digestible and easy of assimilation, is eaten with cream and would be a useful addition to our usual breakfast.

The recommendation of this eminent European authority to the wealthiest health seekers in the world (those who frequent the famous baths of Carlsbad) is especially interesting to Americans.

While Grape-Nuts may be a "health luxury" in Europe, this sturdy health-giving food is within the reach of practically every American at trifling cost.

"THERE'S A REASON"

FOR GRAPE-NUTS

ENGLAND WATCHFUL OVER HER SUBJECTS

Washington, May 28.—A suggestive communication has been issued by the German Navy League as a comment upon the recent Mansion House meeting in London, got up by the Navy League, and the resolutions passed thereat. The following is a translation of the German response:

England's World-Wide Dominions. Ever since Trafalgar, Europeans have, more or less, been accustomed to allow that the command of the seas belonged to Great Britain and to accept this as a historical right. Of such a proposition there can be no question, but it requires no particular proof that the whole of the seagoing world believes the English superiority in ships of war has for its objective the annihilation of the next two strongest fleets. Present-day Englishmen make use of the prevailing ideas and a newspaper recently wrote: "At Trafalgar Nelson gave us the command of the sea, shall we let it be wrested from us?"

To insure against this, all the efforts of the nation are turned, and especially those of the first lord, Mr. Churchill, who has not been prevented by his proposal for a year's holiday in the shipbuilding line from also taking over, in addition to the five super-dreadnoughts of this year's programme and the five colonial battleships, the two ordered by Turkey, which are equal to the newest type of English warship.

Close on this comes the news of the intention seriously to undertake the conquest of the air. At a public meeting just held at the Mansion House, under the presidency of the lord mayor—a meeting organized apparently by the Navy League, and attended by many members of both houses of Parliament and by bankers and financiers—two resolutions were proposed and carried unanimously which seem far-reaching and likely to have results.

The second resolution is as follows: "In view of the rapid development of aircraft for defense and the large sums provided by foreign government for the construction of airplanes, aeroplanes, and auxiliary equipment the time has come when this country must undertake such measures of preparation as will tend at the earliest possible moment to give Great Britain an ample margin of air superiority in airplanes and aeroplanes as against the next strongest naval power."

This, of course, refers to Germany. It would be interesting to know on what this claim is founded. That England's world-wide colonial empire and unsurpassed sea trade should be the reason cannot be admitted. On the contrary, it is probably due to the head-on idea that the German fleet is intended for aggressive purposes, and that this is why our air service is being strengthened. How "fixed ideas" will as a matter of fact, get the better of one?

Never before in the world's history has it been given to one people to possess and dominate the whole earth, the sea and now even the air. But, even for the British, Providence has drawn a boundary line.

Destroyers Defeat Battleships. The minds battle between the destroyers and third division of the Atlantic battleship fleet, in command of Rear Admiral Nathaniel H. Usher, was brought to a close yesterday with a victory for the destroyers, under command of Lieutenant Charles R. Train. The battleship fleet comprised the Georgia, the Rhode Island and the New Jersey, while the destroyers were the Heale, the Walke and the Perkins. Although it was stated that no vessels were sunk in the attack, the destroyers under cover of darkness were able to so worry the officers on board the battleships in their attempt to enter the harbor that they put to sea and left the coast in possession of the enemy.

All the vessels returned to Newport harbor and the entire fleet got under way, and headed by the flagship Wyoming with Rear Admiral Charles J. Badger commanding, passed out, bound for New York. They will not reach that port, however, until Thursday morning.

These eleven battleships were in line: The Wyoming, the Florida, the North Dakota, the Delaware, the South Carolina, the Rhode Island, the New Jersey, the New Hampshire, the Georgia, the Kansas and the Virginia.

TO TAKE CARE OF THE BLIND

An important meeting of the State Board of Charities and Corrections was held on Wednesday forenoon at the office of Secretary W. J. Ahern at the State House in Concord. All of the board with the exception of Mr. Gilman who is ill were present. The board by the laws recently passed take over the supervision of the state asylum and State Prison in addition to the jails, Industrial School, School for Feeble Minded and all benches.

A bill for the relief of the blind, for which $5000 was appropriated, places more work on this board. They must take a census of all of the blind of the state and provide as far as possible, some gainful occupation for them. If necessary teach them at their homes and then find a market for the goods they make. This will mean the employment of an instructor for the blind who will travel about giving instructions.

Mrs. Mary J. Wood of this city is a member of the board, and with Sherman E. Burroughs, William J. Ahern, are a special committee to arrange for the proper enforcement of the new law.

MAKING DWARF TREES

Not a Mystery But it Requires Time and Patience

How gardeners manage to grow miniature plants, trees and oaks in flower pots for half a century has always been more or less of a secret. It is the result chiefly of pruning. They cut first and last at the seat of vigorous growth, endeavoring to weaken it just as far as possible without destroying the life of the tree. They begin with the young plant, say the breeding of a cedar or hemlock, when only two or three inches high, and cut off its top roots as soon as it has other roots enough to live upon, and replant it in a shallow earthen pot or pan.

The end of the tap root is generally made to rest on the bottom of the pan or on a flat stone within it. Alluvial clay is then put into the pot, much of it in bits the size of beans, and just enough in kind and quantity to furnish a scanty nourishment to the plant. Just enough of water, light, and heat is given to keep it alive, but not enough to excite a vigorous habit. Gardeners usually pride themselves on the shape of their miniature trees, and they use strings, wires, and pegs and other various mechanical devices, to promote symmetry of limb, or to fashion their tops into odd fancy figures. Thus by using very shallow pots the development of the taproots is impossible, and by using poor soil growth is prevented. Then too, the top and side roots, which are within easy reach of the gardener, are shortened by means of a pruning knife, or are seared with a hot iron. In this manner the little tree is headed off on every side and is allowed to grow just enough to live and look healthy. Accordingly each new set of leaves become more and more stunted, the buds and rootlets are diminished in proportion, and at length a balance is established between every part of the tree, making it a dwarf in all respects. In some species the end is reached in three or four years while in others ten or fifteen years are required. Scientific American.

PLAYING POLITICS IN JAPAN

California Alien Land Law Issue Used by the Opposition for Party Purposes.

Tokio, May 28.—The executive committee of ex-premier Count Katsura party today passed a resolution in which it was asserted that the cabinet headed by Count Gaimbei Yamamoto could not be relied upon to settle the California alien land ownership question, and it was declared that after a conference with Count Katsura, who is now convalescing from his recent illness, the party must adopt its own propaganda with regard to the dispute.

There are indications that the opposition parties in Japan are utilizing the California alien land ownership legislation in attempts to discredit the Yamamoto ministry and to further their own interests. The cabinet, however, is generally conceded to be in a strong position with the public, chiefly because of the extensive economic and administrative reforms which it has brought about since taking office.

Appointments to the remaining offices will be made to day, when the session will close.

WATERVILLE TO LEVY POLL TAX.

Waterville, Me.—Mayor Francis T. Reeves has determined that in the future the Southern New England Telephone Co. and in fact, any corporation erecting poles in the streets of this city will have to pay a license fee of 50 cents a pole for every excavation made in the sidewalks. This has been talked over by the mayor and the officials of the telephone company and the latter have agreed to it. The question of collecting back fees is being considered.

"WILLIAM TELL" KILLS FRIEND.

Halle, Germany, May 28.—A fatal imitation of William Tell's arrow shot at the apple on his son's head, was given by two university students here. A student named Krusskopf who was with some of his comrades in a beer garden, placed a beer mug on his head and a fellow student shot at it with a revolver. The first ball struck Krusskopf in the centre of the forehead, killing him instantly.

YALE GETS A HALF MILLION

New Haven, Conn., May 28.—Yale University is to receive soon for immediate use nearly $500,000 from the estate of the late Dr. Francis Bacon. The testament provided certain bequests subject to a trust, with the residuary estate going to Yale. It is understood that the agreement under which the trust has been dissolved in favor for the payment by Yale of certain annuities to certain beneficiaries. Under the agreement the trust fund is canceled and Judge Gilson of the probate court has issued an order releasing the trustees who are: Eugene Smith of New York, who is executor of the estate; Nathaniel T. Bacon of Peabody, R. I.; Prof. Theodore S. Woolsey and Henry Seiden Bacon of Rochester.

The inventory of Dr. Bacon's estate totals $751,000, but there was $77,000 which the appraisers found belonged to the estate of George M. Woolsey. However, this does not reduce the net appraisal from $751,000, and neither does it take into consideration land in Texas and Minnesota, and yet appraised, which may bring up the value of the estate several thousands of dollars more.

There are those who estimate that Yale will benefit finally from Dr. Bacon's estate at least to the extent of $750,000.

If you have sore feet, tired feet, swollen feet, corns, calluses or bunions, read what happened to Mrs. Crockett, of Jeffersonville, Ind. TIZ did it. Mr. Crockett says: "After the second treatment she walked downstairs one foot at a time. She had not been able to walk downstairs before in past five years; except by stepping down on each step with one foot at a time. This is remarkable. Send five more boxes." No matter what ails your feet or what under heaven you have used without getting relief, just use TIZ. REPORT IS GRATIFYING.

No Serious Illness Has Occurred at Chase Home
During Past Year.

The thirty-sixth annual report of the Chase Home for Children has been issued.

Therein the trustees commend the work of the superintendent and board of managers for the efficient work they have done the past year. It is hoped that a modern equipped home will be made possible at an early date.
The trustees further told that in the removal by death of its president, Dr.
John W. Parsons, a valued member of the board has died. His services in the home as its physician and adviser will be greatly missed.

The annual report says "It is a matter of congratulation that during the past year there has been no serious illness or epidemic among the twenty children who have been at the home, eighteen of whom are still there." Four were admitted in the course of the year.

Considerable work, including papering and painting, has been accomplished in the course of the last year, nothing having been done, aside from the above, on the interior of the home for a long time.

The subscriptions to the Children's Home Aid Society for the year ending
Feb. 1, 1913, amounted to $25.50.
The gifts of money from Feb. 1, 1912, to Feb. 1, 1913, foot up to $124.12.
